

Lina Gets A Mango

Written by Dr. Professor Phil Zuckerman

Negative thought diminishes children's confidence and lead to bouts of pessimism. Negative thinking is the source of stress and it can make human over control, this can be led to mental processes that prevent humans from achieving happiness. Rational thinking is when humans challenge negative thoughts. It is because we instinctively harbor a range of irrational biases. Professor Phil Zuckerman shows children throughout his story how to overcome negative thoughts by engaging their rational thought and challenging themselves if their observations provide the correct information, as negative thinking can dent children's confidence and lead to bouts of pessimism and inactivity if they are left unchecked. Children need to be educated about negative thinking, positive thinking, and rational thinking.

Lina Get a Mango is a mystery that starts out mysteriously. We learn a collection of details of Lina's life- her walk to school, the animals in her life, and the people that she interacts with on a regular basis. The story brings the reader on a journey through a small village, looking intimately at relationships. Towards the end of the book, Phil ties the characters and mystery together in a creative and educational way. The story teaches children that you cannot make assumptions about people based on their behaviors, that there are subtexts that have yet to unravel and surface. The enchanting illustrations bring the book to life and stretch the boundaries of images children typically see, with a cat who has wheels to assist its mobility and a man who stretches societal gender norms by wearing earrings.

-Dr. Lauren P. Wadsworth

Author:

Dr. Phil Zuckerman (born June 1969, 26), is a professor of sociology and secular studies at Pitzer College in Claremont, California. He specializes in the sociology of secularity. He has been a guest professor, at the University of Aarhus, Denmark for several years in the case of educating «Secularization in Scandinavia». He is the author of several books, including Society Without God (2008) for which he won Foreword Magazine's silver book of the year award, and Faith No More (2011). Lina Gets A Mango shows his talents and skills to communicate to a wide range of society through which not only students and experts, but also children know him.

For librarians in Multilingual Libraries

As society moves toward multiculturalism, the conflict between cultures is expected to increase relatively. This is where the international community strives to promote tolerance culture. Therefore, our books are available in many languages that can be customized according to what you need. Here, you see the book "Lina gets a mango; written by Dr. Professor Phil Zuckerman" can be customized in hosted language e.g. Norwegian.

English Only

Written by Dr. Phil Zuckerman
Website: <https://philzuckerman.com/bio>
Illustrator: Shima Zarrei
Website: shimazarei.com
Format: Paper Cover
Formant: 17x 23 CM
Extent: 48 pp
Color illustrations throughout,
Ages up to 8
Publication Date: In August
ISBN: 978-82-93764-07-6

Follow us:
www.voodoolily.no
Instagram.com/voodoolily.no

Contact:
Project Manager: Rose z. Turner
Email: r.turner@voodoolily.no & r.turner.multilinguallibrary@gmail.com
Tel: +4796678992

Address: FLOTMYRGATA 5525, 183
Haugesund, Norway

VOODOOLily
Publishing Company

We also offer:

- A. English as a single language.
- B. The host as a single language.
- C. Customized language, such as Minorities/Majorities and English is a fixed part due to Nielsen rules.

For example:

Farsi/Norwegian & English

Arabic/Norwegian & English

Key Selling Point

- A professional resource to help parents/teachers/therapists begin to introduce, explore and addressing how to change negative thought into Positive.
- A fresh look at «Tolerance Culture», «respect to differences and disabilities» with miracle illustrations.
- A unique designed to allow children to find themselves in a lovely journey by Lina, discover a puzzle.
- Experts and scientists share their knowledge with children and families in simple ways and through stories, so they can learn to grapple with complex topics, like tolerance culture.
- Share commitment to promoting respect, acceptance and appreciation for the richness of cultural diversity and the infinite number of ways of being human.

Purchase link:

For English:

<https://www.waterstones.com/book/lina-gets-a-mango/zohreh-mehravipour//9788293764076>

Forthcoming children's book*Exploring YOU!

An Introduction to Human Diversity

By Dr. Lauren Page Wadsworth and Dr. Marcus Rodriguez

Synopsis

Identity related topics such as Race, Gender, Sexual Orientation, and Religion are constantly being discussed in today's society. Increasingly scholars are encouraged to grapple with and discuss topics like privilege and marginalization across differences. However, there are too few resources to help parents/teachers/therapists begin to introduce and explore these topics with children. Dr. Lauren Wadsworth & Dr. Marcus Rodriguez hope to address this gap through the book What Makes You, You?

As clinical psychologists with specialized training and expertise in issues of diversity, developmental psychology and mental health, Dr. Lauren Wadsworth & Dr. Marcus Rodriguez are uniquely qualified to write on the topic of identities, and their complex relationships with them. This book is designed to be an introduction for children about the many identities we each hold, along with a brief nod to the existence of privilege and marginalization in society. The book is designed to allow children to find themselves in each page and hope it will be a validating and empowering book for children (and the adults reading the book) who hold marginalized identities.

<https://www.globalmentalhealthlab.com/picture-books>

Lauren P. Wadsworth, PhD
Director, Genesee Valley Psychology, www.gviproc.org

Co-Director, Twin Star Intersectional Diversity Trainers:

www.twinstardiversity.com

Education & Training Consultant, College
Mental Health Program (CMHP),
McLean Hospital/Harvard Medical School
Licensed Clinical Psychologist

Marcus Rodriguez, PhD
Assistant Professor
Pitzer College

